

When asked why I chose to come to Lick-Wilmerding, my first answer is always the same: "because I found it, from the very beginning, to be such a welcoming and friendly place." Mid-way through my first year, I give the same answer when asked why I seem so pleased to be here. The sense of unity, the students' level of comfort with who they are, and the spirit of generosity extended to the whole community, is extraordinary. In my experience it is also unprecedented.

I thank all of you for so gracefully including me in this special community. If I had only one pledge to make at this point, it would be to do everything in my power in the years to come to understand — and preserve — this climate of collegiality, generosity and mutual support.

Happy trails for the summer months and beyond! And, Seniors, we expect you to stay in touch and to visit when you can!

Best Wishes,

Al Adams

We have obtained a variety of healthy, discarded human body parts from SF General Hospital and will use them in a feast fit for a cannibal king! We can almost guarantee that this will be a once-in-a-lifetime gourmet eating opportunity, and a unique chance to confront and master your deepest inhibitions.

Everything smells like Russell
 even the place at work.
 when I'm on the bus riding downtown.
 Everything smells like Russell.
 and when I come home at night
 and there's a snail in my room,
 Everything smells like Russell.
 my roommate's saving for a 250-dollar coat,
 and Everything smells like Russell.
 and all I want to do is rent a warehouse and eat cereal all day.
 'cause Everything smells like Russell.
 once I was stranded in a quiet part of town,
 where everything smelled like Russell.
 once I had a babysitter,
 who wouldn't leave me alone,
 and Everything smells like Russell.
 Everything smells like Russell,
 even my boss at work,
 when people owe me money that I never see,
 Everything smells like Russell.

How to Create the IDEAL Senior Page in just

BY EMMA BECK

3 ~~42~~ EASY Steps

(CONDENSED VERSION)

STEP 1: THE most basic, yet ESSENTIAL component of the oh-so pedantic or obnoxiously sentimental Slick Senior Slide is the "YOU AS YOU'VE EVER LOOKED B4" shot. You like this shot because it looks nothing like you - YOU LOOK GREAT. See EXAMPLE A.

NOTE  HOWEVER, IF YOU SUSPECT that maybe by the time your 20th High School Reunion rolls around that your chin and other assorted body parts may have ENLARGED, and/or BEGUN TO SAG, WRINKLE, or otherwise become UNSIGHTLY... you might opt for the less than flattering current photo, that way friends and acquaintances will MARVEL at how gracefully and beautifully you've aged over the years. This approach may be necessary if you are attempting careers on Wall Street. SEE EXAMPLE B.

EXAMPLE A: YOU MIGHT WANT TO SHOW SOME CHEST HAIR.
Live out your Cleavage fantasy.

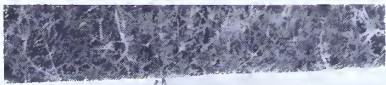

STEP 2: HAVING covered SEX, the most natural complement would of course be VIOLENCE, but that might be a little tricky to capture on film. A good baby picture is a fairly adequate substitute. Show how cute you were before Chemistry Class.

STEP 3: ANOTHER aspect of the generic Senior Page is something YOURS. MUST not be without. The U2 quote.

- a.) I STILL HAVEN'T FOUND WHAT I'M LOOKING FOR"
OR -if you still have some dignity and individuality left...
- b.) "I'VE GOT MY ORANGE CRUSH" (R.E.M.)

To Our Parents

Perhaps most repugnant of all is daytime television. There are soap operas that portray a White, middle-class world of young professionals who spend most of their waking hours wrestling with a never-ending succession of personal crises in a world devoid of politico-economic oppression and social injustice. (Rape, alcoholism, unemployment and wife battering make their appearance but always as personal rather than social problems.) And then there are quiz shows in which contestants are encouraged to divest themselves of every shred of dignity and privacy in a greedy and sometimes frenetic effort to win money or a new refrigerator or some other such material prize.
